The Right Combination

Have you tried creating the life you want, and you still aren't where you want to be?

Manifesting the life that you want can be very similar to working on the combination of a lock to a safe. You try one combination and the safe door doesn't open. If you stop then, the safe door will stay shut. As you try various combinations, there is a much greater chance that eventually the lock will click and the safe door will swing open for you.

The same principles can apply as you work to manifest your best life. You might start by making changes to your attitude with daily positive affirmations and working on being more deliberate about what you focus on. Maybe you try changing a negative belief, clearing your energy, and other physical actions such as healing work or reading motivational books. As you try different combinations, you create and generate higher success and manifesting energies around you.

Just like working with a lock to a safe, if you stop too soon, the door won't open. In addition, as you might seek professional help from someone who knows how to open a safe lock, you may also want to ask for more help by finding a mentor, attending a class, or learning an additional technique to what you are already doing.

When you get the combination just right, suddenly the door swings open. New options and opportunities appear. Clients start calling. New people and places start showing up. That stubborn, difficult lock that seemed so solid has clicked into place and is now opening for you.

Keep going, keep growing, and keep seeking your best today. If one action hasn't worked, try something new or different to unlock those new doors just waiting for you.

Wishing you Light today, Nancy Robinson
